Blue Cross forms 3 new firms, shuffles management

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Utah, the state's largest insurance carrier, has announced a corporate and management reorganization, forming three new corporations and reappointing five management level personnel.

"We have taken these actions because of unprecedented growth in membership in recent years and anticipated future growth," said Jed H. Pitcher, the insurance company's president and chief executive officer. He said anticipated competition in the insurance industry also prompted the changes.

Directors created BCSU Corp. as a holding company controlling the operations of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Utah, ValueCare, Healthwise and Group Services Inc.

Also formed was BCSU Management and Development Corp. to provide management and consulting services to the health care industry on an interstate and intrastate basis.

The third new corporation, BCSU Professional Services, will allow the insurance company to own or manage health care facilities.

Ogden physician J. Ralph Macfarlane, former chairman of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Utah board, was named chairman of BCSU's board of directors, chairman and president of BCSU Management and Development and president of BCSU Professional Services Corp.

Ronald A. Carnago, a consultant to the board of Sandy State Bank, has been named chairman of the board of BCSU Professional Services. He has been a member of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield board since 1978.

Named as chairman of ValueCare, Blue Cross' preferred provider organization, was W.L. Houghton, executive vice president of First Security Bank and a board member of Blue Cross and Blue Shield since 1975.

C. David Kikumoto, a former senior vice president and chief financial officer, was promoted to executive vice president and chief operating officer of Blue Cross and Blue Shield. He will continue as president of Healthwise, the insurance company's health maintenance organization.

In other changes, Michael E. Tobin was named senior vice president of health care services and general counsel. He has been a practicing attorney for 15 years and joined the company in 1979.
